IMPARTIAL, NOT NEUTRAL.

SHANGHAI, SATURDAY, APRIL 28, 1866.

As there has been no export of tea, silk or cotton during the past week, we do not print the usual tables; the figures of course remaining the same as on last Saturday.

THE serious deterioration in silk brought down from the interior has of late years proved a constant source of loss to foreign merchants, and has had, in spite of the failure of the home crops, a very discouraging effect on the China trade. The disturbances in the producing districts were not without their effect in interfering with the culture of the mulberry, the selection of worms, and the rejection of inferior cocoons before winding. Since the pacification of the Chékiang and Keangsu provinces there has however been no improvement, but on the contrary not only is the silk of inferior quality, but it is frequently so wet that it spoils on its way to Europe, and diminishes so much in weight as to cut off all chance of profit. The middle of the bales again is frequently found filled with stones, bricks and refuse of various kinds, the producers having at length learned to combine every mode of cheating that could suggest itself even to the fertile brain of a European trader. From time to time indignant protests have been made; the authorities have been petitioned and proclamations have been drawn up by the Taotai. Ting, in particular, endeavoured to put a stop to the operations of those producers who for a little present profit, were ruining the trade, but his voluminous notifications, his adroit arguments and his tremendous threats were alike vain. Silk and cotton continued to be brought down in every stage of moisture, and combined with every description of rubbish, and at length it was determined to make an appeal to the Governor-general direct, and invoke his assistance. The effects resulting from packing silk while damp have been lucidly set forth by a writer who, under the initials G. E. C., contributed two very valuable articles to our daily issues of the 5th and 11th instant. M. Brenier has therefore done good service, or has endeavoured to do good service to the silk trade, by laying the case before the Governor-general. In his memorial he has detailed the various means adopted by the producers to increase the weight of the bales, and the Viceroy recapitulates those while sternly forbidding their further use. Silk is no longer to be stowed in damp godowns, or subjected to the process of steaming, under the heaviest penalties. But there is a certain indelinieness about the Governor-general's proclamation, which will, we fear, do away with the effect which it ought of right to have. Practically the remedy will still lie in the hands of the foreign merchants themselves, and they must be content to take such precautionary measures as in their own judgment will most effectually guard against frauds by natives. It is manifestly impossible for a silk inspector to open every bale submitted to him, and therefore nothing remains but to make the examination to which silk has hitherto been subjected still more rigorous within the assigned limits. The dealers should be made familiar with the operation of selecting one bale at random out of every fifty or so, and thoroughly opening and examining it, while an easy calculation based on the experiment of drying say one pound of silk from the center of the bale so selected, would give a fair approximation to the state of the whole. As we have said, we place little confidence in the Governor-general's legislation; the proclamation may however have a slightly deterrent effect.

We received the original at so late an hour that we are unable to do more than give a rough translation, which however is sufficiently accurate to indicate the views held by the Viceroy.

THE appointment of Ting Jih-chang, late Taotai at Shanghai, to co-operate with the Viceroy of the two Kwang provinces, in settling the vexed question of the entry of foreigners into Ch'ao-chow-fu, has give some umbrage to the high officials of that district. They, entertain it is said a recollection of a time when Ting was writer in one of the yamêns at this very city of Ch'ao-chow, from which he was summarily dismissed; and do not approve of being re-associated with him in a higher capacity. In the North, Ting has gained for himself a reputation for considerable intelligence and enlightenment, and it is much in his favour that he has been markedly selected for important office by so able a man as Li Hung-chang. The officials in the district from which he came, however, appear not to estimate him so highly. They regard his display of a desire for enlightenment as a sham, and as really concealing a hatred of foreigners which they probably also feel, but do not so industriously conceal by professions of affection and admiration for customs which they at heart depise. However this may be, it is evident that, whether by impudence or real ability, Ting has established himself highly in the good graces of his patron, to whom of course he is indebted for his appointment to his present rather delicate mission. And however much he may object, the Manchu viceroy can hardly refuse to co-operate with the collegue who has been sent him. But the appointment of a special commission at all to enquire into this question appears superfluous. The question is a very simple one of punishing those concerned in an illegal disturbance; though it has no doubt become somewhat serious owing to the way in which it has been mismanaged from first to last. Very many of our readers will doubtless be astonished to hear that, though six years have elapsed since the opening of Peking was enforced, no European dare at this day show his face near the miserable city in which the authorities governing the port of Swatow reside, and through which a certain portion of the foreign trade of that port passes. The opposition originally excited among the turbulent population of this place, was said to have been stirred up by certain of the gentry (or retired mandarins and literary graduates) through the influence of the compradore or agent of one of the mercantile consuls at Swatow, who had his own reasons for wishing to see Europeans confined to a residence at that port. But it is unquestionable that a detachment of a couple of hundred of the troops by which Canton was garrisoned until the end of 1861, would have silenced once and for ever the objections of the mob. In place, however, of resorting to this obvious expedient at the time, the laissez aller policy of the day allowed the question to "lie over," languidly revived now and then, very likely, in some sleepy despatch, whilst for all questions of law, security to property, and diplomatic arrangement, the British Consul at Swatow was reduced to that position of helpless epistolary action, to which it was in the old days Yeh's delight to see foreigners confined. Long immunity from coercion and doubtless convinced the populace of Ch'ao-chow fu that they would be undisturbed in the proud singularity of exclusion to all foreigners, for in November last something was suddenly heard of an entry having been made by the Consul into the city, but also of his having taken his departure with more haste than comfort. Six months having elapsed since then, we may presume that the expedition of the Viceroy of the two Kwang to Ch'ao-chow-fu, which is now reported as having been ordered from Peking, is the consequence of what took place on that occasion, and if the matter cannot be brought to a dignified settlement without the direct interference of so exalted a functionary, it is highly desirable that he should be required to proceed to the spot. But it is difficult to conceive the object of a commission in so simple a matter. The hostile demonstrations which compelled the retreat of H. M.'s Consul were clearly illegal, and as such require judicial investigation and the punishment of those concerned. When so great a show of importance is lent to such an affair, there is danger lest the real object be lost sight of amid the halo of official dignity of which Ch'ao-chow is to be made a focus. The united wisdom of the Viceroy and Ting Jih-chang will no doubt suffice for the production of an elaborate report; but we question whether any more practical result will be arrived at than might have been attained by impressing the necessity for prompt enquiry and severe punishment, on the local authorities.

Summary of the Week.

THE race completely superseded every other topic of interest during the past week, and afforded good sport. The weather, which had been fine for some days, suddenly changed on Tuesday evening, when heavy rain fell, materially affecting the state of the course. A cloudy day and occasional drizzling rain resulted in a rather thin attendance on the first day; improved weather and improved sport lent greater life to the second; and on the third both reached nearly to perfection. A full account of the proceedings will be found in another column. A reply has been received from Sir Rutherford Alcock to the reference made to him on the subject of the Tag Le-kuan, in which he referates the dictum of Sir Frederick Bruce, that we have no right to interfere in the dealings of the Chinese with their own subjects. We trust that when the real question is put before him in a clearer light, and he is asked whether the Chinese are to be allowed to levy duns in contravention of the treaty, he will admit the justice of the representations which the Council have made. Some further discussion has taken place regarding the existence of the character signifying "Barbarian" in a Chinese warrant stamped at H. M. Consulate; Mr. Alabaster expressing his conviction that such an oversight could not have occurred, and Mr. Yung-king asserting that it did occur, that he pointed it out to the two wei-yuans who were charged with the execution of the warrant, in the presence of the Superintendent of Police, and that he has since obtained a copy of the warrant itself. The U. S. Corvette Wyoming has been again unlucky, having been run into by the Island Queen with such violence as to cause damage to the extent of about Tls. 1,500. Rear-Ad. has not been confined to Shanghai. At KIUKIANG also two days' excellent sport have been spent, of which we give an account elsewhere, as well as of, a day's racing at PEKING, where the small foreign community keep up steals with praiseworthy pluck. NISUPO follows the example on Monday and Tuesday.

A correspondent at NEWCHANG has sent us interesting details of the fracas in which the U. S. Consul was engaged with banditti at that port. The destruction of the house in which the latter were quartered at the time appears to have had an excellent effect.

YOKOHAMA advices speak of a rumoured agreement between Choshu and the Tycoon, in virtue of which the former is to pay a nominal fine of 100,000 kokus of rice, and to be forgiven. A report has also got abroad that the Mikado and some of the principal Daimios wish to confine the Tycoon to the provincial residence of the Prince of Aidzu, and to entrust the government of the country to Kishiu and Owari. A detachment of the 11th regiment had arrived from Hongkong, and a portion of the 2nd regiment had left.

The mail of the 10th March arrived on the 24th inst., a day before its time. The only news of importance is the announcement of a probable rupture between Austria and Prussia.

SILK FRAUDS.

PROCLAMATION by LI, Acting Governor-General, &c. &c.

IT is manifest that silk sent by weight from the interior is one of the most important articles of traffic in this part of the country, inasmuch as the trade carried on between native and foreign merchants has hitherto contributed to the Imperial exchequer and been of great advantage to the people. Thus both (publicly and privately) profit and benefit arose. It is therefore above all things necessary that good silk should be selected (for sale) and placed in lofty chambers far from the chance of becoming wet.

Now the French Consul General Brenier has addressed a memorial (chéin chéu) to me, setting forth that at present in the producing districts, no care is taken to select good silk or to store it in dry places, but that on the contrary, it is put in the dampest possible cellars, in the hope that it will absorb moisture. But (not satisfied with this) some go so far as to put hot water under (the bales) and steam them to increase their weight. The Consul General therefore requests me to issue a proclamation forbidding the practice. I have also received a petition (pi-g pao) from the Taotai of Shanghai through whom the Consuls of England and America make a similar complaint. The Taotai has already ordered the head of the silk men to devise some means of checking this evil and to report to him. Such being the nature of the representations made to me, I am compelled to issue a proclamation.

Therefore, all ye that sell or produce silk, take notice. The new season will open almost immediately, and you are therefore to select (beforehand) good and dry warehouses, while you are forbidden to store silk in wet places with the design of making it damp. And you are forbidden to steam it, lest after the lapse of time the weight diminish, and the colour be injured. Wherefore whenever silk is bought by weight you are to give the foreign merchants every facility to select it for themselves. You, whether sellers or producers, must recollect that this trade is the staple trade of the district, and therefore it is most inexpedient to injure silk (above all other things.) If silk when it passes into the foreign merchants' hands prove a source of loss, you will be complained of to the officials, and your pleasant anticipations (of profit) will then be effectually spoiled.

Tremble and obey. Do not disregard this.

April 18th, 1866.

THE SHANGHAI RACES.

THE unfortunate change in the weather which took place on Tuesday night, interfered with the running of the horses, and no doubt contributed to diminish the attendance on the Grand Stand on Wednesday. More ladies were present than we had expected, considering the threatening appearance of the clouds, but many more were absent; and altogether the hope that the meeting would prove more in accordance with those of two years ago was, so far as the first day was concerned, disappointed. The quantity of rain which had fallen during the night necessarily made the course heavy and muddy, and great havoc was played with the gay colours of the jockeys. Fen-de-joie's chance for the Chu-ka-za, which had before appeared most promising, was extinguished, and Birdlime's greater strength enabled him to carry off the race with ease. Sir William too did not like the mud, and failed to make so good a struggle as was expected. Notwithstanding these drawbacks incomplete success, a fair day's sport was afforded so far as racing was concerned. The race for the "Ladies' Purse" was rendered a farce by the admission of Busy Bee; but an excellent struggle for the "Tattloe Cup", somewhat compensated for the disappointment.

ry stride, and got on Sir William's quarter at the post, at a pace which showed that another two or three hundred yards would have seen him a winner. Starlight's failure for the "Claret Cup," too, disappointed many, and was principally attributable to his bad start.

1.—Maiden Plate.—Value Tls. 75.—For China Ponies only.—Winners at this Meeting excluded.—Weight for inches as per scale.—Entrance Tls. 5 each.—¼ Mile.

Fleur de Lis, ... 1
Promised Land, ... 2
Flotsam, ... 3

A good race; won by a length and a half, half a length between the second and third; several others well up. Fifteen ran. Time 1m. 42s.

2.—Challenge Cup.—Value 500 Guineas.—To be won two years consecutively by a Horse or Horses, the bona fide property of the same owner.—For all Horses.—Arabs 8st.; Mod Breed 8st. 7 lbs.; Colonials, 4 years and under, 9st. 5 years and over, 9st. 7 lbs.; English, 4 years and under 10st.; 5 years and over, 10st. 7 lbs.—Entrance Tls. 20 each.—2 Miles.

Sir William, ... 1
Exeter, ... 2

This was the best race that took place at the meeting. Exeter's chance was looked on as certain, and this certainty was the cause of the loss. Sir William took a lead almost immediately on starting, and the horses passed the Stand the first time; Sir William leading, Exeter, Pathfinder and Traveller following in the order named. Sir William gradually increased his lead till the horses reached the opposite side of the course, when Exeter was called on and answered splendidly. But he had been held too long, and though he gained at every stride Sir William passed the post about three quarters of a length ahead. Time 3 m. 58 s.

3.—Yang-tze Cup.—Value Tls. 200.—Presented by the Brokers of Shanghai.—Second Pony to receive Tls. 50.—For all China Ponies.—Weight for inches as per scale.—Winner of one race at this Meeting, 7 lbs. extra; two races, 14 lbs. extra.—Entrance Tls. 5 each.—2 Miles.

Rejected, ... 1
Delusion, ... 2
Ringleader, ... 3

A false start was made at first, and Deserter ran some distance before his rider could stop him. A second time they got away capitally, Ossia leading past the Stand. Shortly afterwards Woo swerved out of the race, refused to go on and was walked home. On nearing the corner Rejected drew ahead and came in an easy winner. Fourteen ran. Time 4 m. 48 s.

4.—Panse Cup.—Value Tls. 310.—For all Arabs.—Weight 9 st.—Winners in Shanghai or Hongkong of one race, 7 lbs. extra; of two races, 14 lbs. extra.—Three Horses to start from opposing Stables or no race.—Entrance Tls. 10 each.—1½ Mile.

Early Purl, ... 1
Lawyer, ... 2

This of course was a foregone thing for Early Purl; Lawyer ran through his horses and took the lead immediately after starting. On the opposite side of the course, however, Early Purl collared and passed him easily, winning as he liked by a hundred yards. Busy Bee and Vizier pulled up. Time 2 m. 49 s.

5.—Celestial Cup.—Value Tls. 300.—For all China Ponies.—To be won two consecutive Meetings by the same Pony.—Entrance Tls. 10 each, one half of which to be added to the Cup, accumulating, but not to exceed the sum of Tls. 500, until the Cup be finally won.—Second Pony at each Meeting to receive Tls. 50 from the accumulating Fund.—Last Pony to pay third Pony's entrance.—1½ Mile.

Birdlime, ... 1
Fleur de lis, ... 2
Flotsam, ... 3

Bogtrotter started with the lead, which he kept to the opposite side of the course, when the two ponies placed drew ahead. Won by three quarters of a length; the others well up. Birdlime and his rider received a perfect ovation. Time. 3 m. 33 s.

6.—Claret Cup.—Value Tls. 100.—For all Horses not entered at this Meeting for any other Flat Race.—Catch Weights.—Entrance Tls. 10 each—Once round.

Rochester, ... 1
Priam, ... 2
Starlight, ... 3

Starlight was the favorite; but lost his chance by getting away badly at the start. Priam led two thirds of the way round. At the corner before coming in he was collared by Rochester, and after a short struggle passed; the latter winning by several lengths, the same distance between the second and third. Time 2 m. 28s. The rider of Priam claimed a foul, which however was, on consideration, disallowed by the Stewards.

7.—Welter Cup.—Value Tls. 200.—For all Horses not entered for the Challenge Cup.—Weights:—Arabs, 9st; Colonials, 4-years and under, 10st 7lbs; 5 years, 11st; 6 years and aged, 11st 7lbs.; English, 12st 7lbs.—Entrance Tls. 10 each—Once round.

Sibion, ... 1
Yeowun, ... 2

The two placed only ran. Stilton kept the lead throughout, and won by several lengths. Time 2 m. 31s.

THIRD DAY.

The weather on each day of the Spring Meeting was better than on the preceding one, and the sport followed nearly the same rule. Certainly the racing on Friday surpassed that on either Wednesday or Thursday, and was witnessed by a larger concourse of people. The Grand Stand for the first time was filled, and presented an appearance of animation which had before been lacking. The band from the Guerriere was again present, and enlivened the intervals between the races which, without some divertissement, are always tiresome to spectators. The owners of the other horses entered for the 'Home Cup' wisely determined not to allow them to enter on a hopeless struggle with the two cracks; and the match between Sir William and Exeter again resulted in a victory for the former. The jockeyship of both was excellent, and the result only added another to the thousand proofs already extant, of the glorious uncertainty of the turf. Exeter's jockey was changed from the previous day, but at the cost of four pounds surplus weight; and whether or not this disadvantage told, a splendid race resulted in his defeat by a length. The Steeplechase, too, resolved itself into a match between Kangaroo and Peter Simple, who took the lead alternately and finished so close that the second horse and his rider deserved as great credit as the first. Better leaping or better jockeyship are seldom seen. The usual number of ponies fell, refused and otherwise came to grief in the Scramble, and every one ducked itself and its rider at the water jump opposite the Stand. The winner, Delusion, won through sheer stamina; Grimaldi, who had taken his jumps splendidly, being evidently too exhausted to contest the run in, while Delusion appeared game for another round.

1.—Chaseee Cup.—Value Tls. 300.—For China and Japan Ponies.—Weight for inches as per scale.—Winners of two or more races at this Meeting 10lbs. extra; of one race 7lbs. extra.—Entrance Tls. 10 each.—1 Mile.

Fleur de Lis, ... 1
Birdlime, ... 2
Carnufex, ... 3
Taepan, ... 4
Quicksand, ... 5
Feu-de-joie, ... 6

Fleur de lis won by a neck on the post, after a splendid race; several others well up. Time 2m. 14s.

2.—Colonial Sweepstakes.—A Sweepstakes of Tls. 25 each, with Tls. 200 added.—For all Colonial Horses; to be handicapped by the Stewards at the end of the second day's races.—Entrance Tls 10 each.—2 Miles.

Ramornie, ... 1
Traveller, ... 2
Iron Clad, ... 3

Stilton started with the lead, followed by Ramorne and Traveller who raced together the whole length of the opposite side of the course at an easy pace. On nearing the corner, both horses were let out and passed Stilton in a few strides; Ramornie gradually drawing away and winning by a length. Time 3m. 53s.

3.—Selling Stakes.—For China Ponies.—If entered at a Value of Tls. 600, to carry 12st. 7lbs.; under that amount to be Handicapped by the Stewards according to the Value at which entered.—The owner of the second Pony may claim the Winner; otherwise the winner to be sold immediately after the race, at Auction, with all his engagements.—Any amount realized by such sale, over and above the sum at which the Pony has been entered, to go to the Fund.—Entrance Tls. 5 each, with Tls. 100 added from the Fund.—2 Miles.

Delusion, ... 1
Monogram, ... 2
Meteor, ... 3

The race was between these three ponies; the others evidently having little chance from an early period. Monogram led, followed by Meteor the first time round, but on nearing home Delusion drew up, and after the three had raced together for some distance, came away and won by several lengths; about two lengths between the second and third. Time 4m. 39s.

4.—Home Cup.—Value 100 Guineas—Presented by a Subscriber.—For all Horses.—Arabs 8st. 7lbs.; Colonials, 4 years and under, 9st. 6lbs.; 5 years, 9st 12lbs.; 6 years and aged 10st. 4lbs.;—English, 4 years and under, 10st. 3lbs.; 5 years, 10st. 10lbs.; 6 years and aged, 11st.—Entrance Tls. 10 each.—1½ Miles.

Sir William, ... 1
Exeter, ... 2

This was a splendid race. The two horses raced neck and neck so nearly evenly that their legs on the opposite side of the course appeared to belong to one animal; sometimes one and sometimes the other shewing a neck forward for a few strides. On rounding the corner near home, however, Sir William gradually forged ahead and won eventually without punishment by a short length. Exeter carried an extra four pounds. Time 2m. 51s.

5.—Consolation Cup.—Value Tls. 100.—For all beaten Ponies at this Meeting.—Weight for inches as per scale.—Entrance Tls. 5 each.—Once round.

Silver Leaf, ... 1
Jack O'Lantern, ... 2
Ringleader, ... 3

A close race, won by a length. Half a length between the second and third. Time 2m. 50s. a 2m. 51s.

6.—The Spring Cup.—Value Tls. 300.—For all Horses that have not won at this Meeting.—"Challenge Cup" weights.—Entrance Tls. 10 each.—1 Mile.

Hawannah, ... 1
Pathfinder, ... 2
Malabar, ... 3

Anecdote also came to the post; but lost his chance at once, by refusing to start and spinning round with his rider. He was eventually got away, but never reached his horses. Hawannah went away with the lead and kept it throughout, winning by three lengths. Time 1m. 51s. a 1m. 52s.

7.—The Hongkong Cup.—Value Tls. 300.—Presented by the Hongkong Community.—A Steeple Chase for all Horses.—Weight.—Arabs 9st.; Mod Breed 10st.; Colonial 11st.; English 12st.—Entrance Tls. 15 each.—About 3 Miles.

Kangaroo, ... 1
Peter Simple, ... 2

A finer race has seldom been run than between the two horses placed, and it was eventually only won at the post by half a length. Cornstalk went away with the lead, Louise cantering hard hard held, and all the horses went well round till they came to the double, where Louise fell heavily, breaking the top rail and throwing her rider with such force against the second fence that his hunting cap was fairly crushed. Fortunately he sustained no injury beyond a severe shaking. Louise got away and was hence forth out of the race. Peter Simple also refused once; but took it on a second look. In the meantime, however, Kangaroo had gone away with a long lead and taken the water jump in splendid style, an example which was followed by Peter Simple. Cornstalk merely plunged into it, flinging his rider, who remounted but was hence forth out of the race, which lay between the two placed. The second time round Peter was leading at a rattling pace, both horses taking their jumps splendidly, without a single refusal. On the opposite side of the course Kangaroo went ahead again and run so, waited on by Peter, to the last jump before coming in, which they took nearly abreast, an exciting race in, finishing in favour of Kangaroo by a half length. Both riders were loudly cheered.

8.—The Scramble.—Value Tls. 100.—For China and Japan Ponies.—Weight 10st. 7lbs.—Entrance Tls. 10 each.—Twice round a Course selected by the Committee.

Delusion, ... 1
Grimaldi, ... 2

With so many ponies running, it was impossible to follow their individual performances. In fact half were out of the race at the end of the first round; and before the second round was half over, it had become a struggle between three. When they first passed the stand, Grimaldi and Taepan appeared to have it to themselves; but Taepan disappeared in the ditch or its neighborhood, and Delusion took his place. A fine race between him and Grimaldi resulted in the latter's easy defeat at the last, through the superior staying qualities of the winner.

KEWKEANG RACES.

This sporting little community held their Spring Race Meeting on 13th and 14th current. The badness of the weather had caused a postponement from the 10th and 11th, so notwithstanding that it rained heavily during part of the morning of the 13th it was determined that the events should come off. Towards noon Pluvian Jove became placable, and went elsewhere with his rain, but left the course so soft and wet as to threaten serious damage to the gay colors of the jockeys. The following is a detail of the sport:—

First Day.

1.—Hack Cup.—Value $50. For RIVER PONIES, the bona fide property of Residents in Kiukiang. Weight for inches as per scale. entrance Tls. 5.—½ Mile.

Mr. Louth's "Pepper,"
" Graham's "Red Deer," } Dead Heat.
" Castle's "Look out," 3

This was a most exciting race, "Red Deer" leading slightly till within a few yards of the post, when "Pepper" came up, and the race terminated in a Dead Heat. The owners agreed to divide. "Red Deer" walking over.

2.—Cha-sze Cup.—Value—. For all CHINA PONIES. Weight for inches as per scale. Entrance Tls. 5.—1½ Miles.

Mr. Lu-shan's "Nemesis," 1
" Samuel's "Flotsam," 2
" Walter's "Jack o'Lantern," 3

The flag fell to an excellent start, "Nemesis" assuming the lead, closely followed by "Jack o'Lantern. About ¼ a mile from home "Flotsam" came up, took second place, and racing "Nemesis" down the straight, was beaten by a length and a half, "Jack o'Lantern" a bad third.

3.—Griffins' Plate.—Value $100. Presented. For RIVER PONIES, except winners at any other Port than at Kiukiang. Weight for inches as per scale. Entrance Tls. 5.—½ Mile.

Mr. Lu-shan's "Black Douglas," 1
" Brown's "Uncle Ned," 2
" Christie's "Willie Sharp," 3

This race excited, as usual, much interest and speculation, the "Noble Owners" being each confident that his "Grift" was the best. Five ponies went to the post, got well away and ran in close company most of the distance, "Black Douglas" winning by a length, the rest of the field well up. "Willie Sharp" held in.

4.—Lottery Cup.—Value—. For all CHINA PONIES, except winners at any other Port than Kiukiang. Weight for inches as per scale. Entrance Tls. 5.—½ Mile.

Mr. Lu-shan's "Bitter Ale," 1
" Iris' "Norwood," 2
" John's "Boots," 3

"Bitter Ale" won an easy race. "Boots" fully entitled to the honor of the last place.

5.—Challenge Cup.—Value $150. For RIVER PONIES, to be won at two Meetings consecutively by a Pony or Ponies, the bona fide property of the same owner. Weight for inches as per scale. Entrance Tls. 5.—1 Mile.

Mr. Manship's "Deception" 1
" Castle's "Look out" 2
" Castle's "Wild Deer" 3
" Samuel's "Aching Heart" 0

"Wild Deer" rather behind at the start, "Look out" forced the pace for the first half mile. "Deception" won, hard held.

6.—Visitors' Cup.—Value $100. For all CHINA PONIES, that have never won a race. Weight for inches as per scale. Entrance Tls 5.—1 Mile.

Mr. Primrose's "Beadsman" 1
" Lu-shan's "Yang-tung-ling" 2
" Ap-Hugh's "Grampus" 0

"Grampus" refused to start. "Beadsman" assumed the lead, which he maintained the whole way round, winning by a couple of lengths.

Second Day.

The Course was much drier than on the first day, and a bright sun-shine raised the spirits of both performers and spectators, the latter giving vent to their feelings in numerous sweeps for small amounts, and a little 'business' was done by the sporting men.

1.—Chaffron Cup.—Value $250. For RIVER PONIES; to be won at two consecutive Spring Meetings by a Pony or Ponies, the bona fide property of the same owner, being a resident in Kiukiang. Weight for inches as per scale; any Pony that has won a Cup, Plate, or Stakes of the value of $100 or upwards to carry 5 lbs. extra. Entrances $10 each, to go to the winner; second Pony to save his Stake—2 miles.

Mr. Lu-shan's "Willie Sharp" 1
" Brown's "Uncle Ned" 2
" Primrose's "Beadsman" 3
" Lu-shan's "Black Douglas" 0

After the first mile, the "Field" in passing the Stand assumed the above order which was maintained throughout the rest of the distance; "Willie Sharp" winning without difficulty. The "Field" kept well together the whole way.

2.—A Handicap Sweepstakes of $10 each, with $50 added from the Fund. For all CHINA PONIES. To be handicapped by the Stewards after the first day's Races. Weight for inches as per scale.—1 Mile.

Mr. Samuel's "Flotsam" 10st. 9lb. 1
" Lu-shan's "Nemesis" 11st. 6lb. 2
" Walter's "Jack o'Lantern" 10st. 8lb. 3

"Jack o'Lantern" led for the first ½ mile, when "Nemesis" came to the front, and "Flotsam" passing him near home won by about half a length.

3.—Yang-tze Race.—Value $100. For RIVER PONIES. Weight for inches as per scale. Winners at this Meeting 7lbs. extra. Entrance Tls. 5.—1½ Miles.

Mr. Manship's "Deception" 1
" Lu-shan's "Bitter Ale" 2
" Iris' "Chimes" 3

"Bitter Ale" forced the pace for the first mile, when "Deception" passed him and won easily by 2 lengths.

4.—Consolation Cup.—Value $50. For all BEATEN PONIES at this Meeting. Weight for inches as per scale. Entrance Tls. 5.—½ Mile.

Mr. Iris' "Chimes" 1
" Castle's "Wild Deer" 2
" Lu-shan's "Yang-tung-ling 3
" Brown's "Uncle Ned 0

"Chimes" kept the lead throughout, and won by a couple of lengths.

At the close a Welter Sweepstake was run: seven spirited heavy weights starting. Won by "Beadsman." The day's sport terminated with a Horseboy's race, and a race for the Blue Jackets of H. M. S. "Slaney" which latter was the cause of considerable mirth, a large per-centage of the ponies coming in with empty saddles.

The Kewkeang community has reason to congratulate itself upon having had a very pleasant Race Meeting, although the fields were not so large as on former occasions nor the stand so well filled.

THE PEKING SPRING MEETING.

The Peking spring races came off on Wednesday the 4th April in the presence of an immense concourse of spectators, who covered the low hills around the race course, which is situated outside the western wall of the city. The day was fine and the meeting was the most successful ever held in the Chinese capital. The day's sport commenced at 11 A.M., when four ponies appeared to contest the 1.—Hai-kwan Challenge Cup, value Tls. 100, presented by the Customs' service Distance 1½ mile.

1.—"Faust," .....Mr. Bismarck's.
2.—"Mephistopheles," ... " Murray's.

A capital race, "Faust" took the lead at starting and retained it throughout.

2.—The Derby. Distance 1 mile, value $50.

1.—"Customer," .....
2.—"Shillelagh," .....Mr. Porter's.
3.—"Tingchaq," ..... " Hart's.

Six ponies started, "Tingchaq" took the lead and retained it for the first ½ mile. "Customer" then went to the front followed by "Shillelagh." Between these there was a neck and neck race to the post. "Customer" won by half a head.

3.—Ladies' Purse. Distance ¾ mile.

Eight ponies came to the starting point. "Dreadnought" rushed to the front but ran off the course at the first turn, when his rider gave up the race.

1.—"Mephistopheles," .....Mr. Murray's.
2.—"Robinson Crusoe," ... Brown's.
3.—"Hop o' my thumb," ... Mitford's.

2.—"Faust," ..... " Bismarck's.
3.—"Robinson Crusoe," ..... Brown's.

Six ponies ran. "Faust" held the lead until within 100 yards of the post, when "Tingchaq" made a rush and passed him. A fine race.

5.—The Wang-ho-low Stakes. ½ mile.

1.—"Quandu," .....Mr. Mitford's.
2.—"Dreadnought," .....
3.—"Landwehr," .....Mr. De Tring's.

The ponies ran well together in this race, for which seven started. "Quandu" won after a hard struggle with "Dreadnought."

6.—The Steeple Chase. ¾ mile, 1st pony $50, 2nd pony $15.

Six ponies contested this race and ran together to the second jump when all baulked. Mr. Man's "Sambo" got through first and held the lead to the winning post, closely followed by "Shillelagh, "Hop o' my thumb" a good third.

FURTHER CORRESPONDENCE RELATING TO THE ILLEGAL TAXATION QUESTION.

Shanghai, 23rd April, 1866.

Sir,—I have the honour to enclose for the information of your self and co leagues, copy of a despatch from Sir R. Alcock, K.C.B., H. M. Plenipotentiary and Minister Extraordinary in China, in reply to my communication forwarding the correspondence which recently took place between us, touching the execution of the warrants of the Chinese authorities within the limits of the settlement.

I trust that this clear expression of the views of H. M. Minister, the original founder of the system, to whom the late Council through you elected to appeal, may be taken as decisive of a point in respect to which exaggerated pretensions cannot fail to affect injuriously the progress of municipal work which no one more than myself desires sincerely and effectively to promote.

Nothing would be more agreeable to me, and I venture to speak in the same sense for my colleague Mr. Sewell, that the Council should enable us, by a frank acceptance of the position thus once more authoritatively established, to unite our labours with theirs in such a way as to conciliate the material progress of the settlement with the inherent rights of the Chinese government. We shall gladly embrace the opportunity of making our professions in this respect something more than written words of formal correspondence, by joint action within the limits so clearly laid down in former years by the Representatives of our governments, and now again so definitively re-affirmed in the enclosure to this communication.

I shall not fail to forward any further despatch on this subject which may reach me from Peking.

I have &c.,
C. A. Winchester,
H. B. M. Consul.

W. Keswick, Esq.,
Chairman Municipal Council.

(Enclosure.)

Peking, April 10th, 1866.

Sir,—Referring to your despatch No. 26 of the 28th March, and its numerous enclosures, I have to convey my entire approval of the tenor of your communications with the Chairman of the Municipal Council, and the course of action adopted in concert with your colleague the Consul General for the United States of America.

There are questions raised in this correspondence which I had hoped the instructions conveyed by Sir Frederick Bruce to the Consul of Her Majesty at Shanghai, and the subsequent decision of Her Majesty's government thereupon, would have definitively set at rest. That they should be resuscitated and again pleaded, in bar of the necessary action of the Consular authority to uphold the jurisdiction of the Chinese authorities over the native residents in the settlement, whenever such action shall appear needful, is much to be regretted.

What the true interests and just rights of the Municipality may be, I will not at present discuss. But there is much in this correspondence which would lead to the conclusion that there is something in the very term Municipality, calculated to mislead a cosmopolitan community in China. If this should really prove to be so, I am afraid I must take no small share of the blame which may attach to those who originally suggested its adoption. I do not yet see anything in the term or designation which should necessarily lead to error or misconception on the principle governing the attributions and functions of the self-elected body administering the funds collected under the Land Regulations. Whether the body be termed a Land Committee or a Committee of Roads and Jetties, as they were in the first instance, or finally a Municipal Council, can in nothing affect their actual status and legal powers. Be this as it may, the misconceptions which have so often arisen, and as constantly been corrected by the highest authority and official exposition of the true limits of both, render it incumbent upon me to leave no doubt whatever as to my views on the subject. In a subsequent dispatch I will return to this correspondence, therefore, and give you such further instruction as may be required for your guidance in connection with the whole question of Municipal rights and jurisdiction at Shanghai, under existing Treaties and Regulations.

Your obedient servant,
Rutherford Alcock.

To C. A. Winchester, Esq.,
H. B. M. Consul,
Shanghai.

ILLEGAL WARRANTS.

To the Editor of the North-China Herald.

Sir,—The concluding sentence of Consular Memorandum No. 2 dated 19th instant reads thus:—"Mr. Alabaster is decidedly of opinion that the supposed use of the character I (Barbarian) in a late warrant is purely imaginary. I am instructed by the Chairman of the Council to forward you the accompanying Memorandum from Mr. Yung-king, Municipal Interpreter, and I beg you will be so good as to give it insertion in the next issue of the North-China Herald.

I am, Sir,
Your obedient servant,
Alex. Johnston.
Secretary.

Council Room,
Shanghai, 23rd April, 1866.

The word "I," 夷, barbarian, used in a late warrant, occurred in the term "I-chiang," (barbarian settlement). The document bore the seals of the British and French Consulates, with the signature of their respective officers attached. It was a special instrument, and in red characters, issued by the Magistrate, in compliance with orders from Soochow, and ordered the apprehension of a mandarin, surnamed Liu 劉, for embezzlement of public funds.

On my pointing out the Treaty-prescribed character to the two wei-yuens who brought it to the Police Station for execution, one of them at once produced another and unstamped copy of it, with the words "Yang-king pang" 洋經幫, substituted for the above term, (out of which he desired me to read,) and requested me not to stop its execution on account of the mistake, the case being urgent.

A copy of the clause wherein the word "I," 夷, occurred can be seen at the Council's office if desired.

The original warrant is probably at the Chehhien's yamén, where it doubtless can be seen by those who wish for a more conclusive proof.

Y. Yung-King,
Interpreter, M.C.

Shanghai, April 21st, 1866.

[We have seen a copy of the warrant, which fully bears out Mr. Yung-king's statement, assuming, of course, that the copy is authentic. We imagine, however, that the chance of reading it as the Chi Hien's yamén, now that it has become the subject of so much comment, is extremely problematical.—Eds. N. C. H.]

SUPPLEMENT

TO THE

NORTH-CHINA HERALD, APRIL 28, 1866.

H. B. M. SUPREME COURT.

Before SIR E. HORNBY,
Chief Judge.

APPEAL.

TURNER & CO. v. INNES & CO.

This was an appeal in the above case, which was heard on the 27th Nov., 1865 before W. H. MEDHURST Esq., H. B. M. Consul at Hankow, in which the Plaint was as follows:—

That Defendants shall instruct Messrs Reid & Co. and Messrs Nichol Latimer & Co., through whom certion Teas were forwarded from Shanghai to England, to hold to the order of the Plaintiffs any balance resulting on realization of the said Teas in England.

Judgment was given for the Plaintiffs. The Defendants, Messrs. Innes & Co., in consequence appealed to the Supreme Court for reversal of the decision.

The facts of the case are:—

Acum, Compradore to Messrs. Innes & Co., consigned through them 2 chops of Tea under advance to England in June 1865, without declaring the actual proprietorship of the teas, and they were accordingly entered into Messrs. Innes & Co.'s books as shipped on Acum's account. About three weeks after the shipment had been effected, Samshing called on Messrs. Innes & Co. and declared the teas to be his property. Acum supporting him in this statement, and requesting an alteration to be made in the entry on the books. Messrs. Innes & Co. declined to recognise any one but Acum in the transaction, and, according to Messrs. Innes & Co.'s account, Samshing and Acum consented to allow the matter so to remain. Samshing subsequently having occasion to meet a debt owing to Turner & Co., assigned all his interest in these teas to that firm, and on their requiring from him some document in support of his alleged proprietorship, Acum in September applied to Messrs. Innes & Co. for a memorandum to that effect. Messrs. Innes & Co. having just then detected their compradore Acum in a series of frauds upon their house, thought fit to maintain their first position in respect to the teas, and refused again to recognise any one but Acum in the shipment account. They nevertheless consented to give Acum a memorandum in English of the shipment as made on his account, telling him, in reply to his enquiring whether he might endorse this in Chinese to Samshing, that he might do as he pleased about that, as long as they regarded him as the shipper. Acum accordingly endorsed the memorandum in favour of Samshing, sealing it with the seal of the firm, and with the cognisance of Messrs. Innes & Co., handed this memorandum to Messrs. Turner & Co.'s compradore. Messrs. Turner & Co. thereupon had applied to Messrs. Innes & Co. for power over the proceeds anticipated upon the shipment, and this had been refused.

Mr. MEDHURST decided that the acceptance of the teas by Acum constituted an acceptance by Innes & Co.; ruled that Samshing had the right to assign his interest in the proceeds to Messrs. Turner & Co. and recorded judgment for the Plaintiffs.

His LORDSHIP after hearing the arguments by the learned Counsel on both sides, delivered judgment as follows:—

In this case the Defendants pray that the Judgment of the Court below in favor of the Plaintiffs be reversed. Now what is the judgment of the Court below? Following the prayer of the petition which it grants, it amounts to this, an order on the Defendants to instruct Messrs. Reid & Co. and Messrs. Nichol Latimer & Co. to hold to the order of the Plaintiffs any balance which may result from the realization of two chops of Tea. If I am to uphold this order, I should be giving the Plaintiffs a barren verdict, for it would not operate as an order on Messrs. Reid & Co. or Messrs. Nichol Latimer & Co. who are no parties to the suit, and may have a great deal to say against acting under such an order. In short I should be deciding on the right of numerous intermediate parties without giving to such parties the opportunity of being heard; for if such an order would be good as against Messrs. Reid & Co. and Messrs. Nichol Latimer & Co. it would be equally good, if the Plaintiffs had thought fit to name them, against the Captain who took the Teas home, the Factor who received them for sale, and the purchaser, whoever he might be. Instead of a judgment defining the rights of two parties, it would be a species of judicial notice which might be prejudiciable and could avail nothing. On the ground, therefore, that the form of action is altogether wrong, I must give judgment for the appellant; but on the merits of the case he would be equally entitled upon the evidence before me to a reversal of the decision of the Court below. What is the transaction? Acum, the Compradore of Messrs. Innes & Co., ships, through Innes & Co., one or more chops of Tea, and obtains advances on them. They are entered to his account. After the shipment Samshing comes forward and says these Teas are mine, and Acum admits they were; and Samshing therefore tells Innes & Co. to hold any proceeds that may accrue to his use. To this Innes & Co. reply:—we do not know you in the matter, and we had no reason to suppose that the Teas were not his. He shipped them and he obtained the advance and to him we shall account. It is stated that Acum is indebted to Turner & Co.; whether this is so or not does not yet appear. It appears further that Samshing transferred all his interest in the Tea, whatever that was, to Turner & Co.; but Turner & Co. can have no greater right than Samshing, and if Innes & Co. can hold against Samshing, they can of course hold against Turner & Co. A great deal has been said about custom and about Hong seals, but there is no evidence before me of the custom of trade. One party says one course of trade is the custom, the other party that another course of dealing is the custom; and so with regard to the Hong seal. I therefore am obliged to dismiss from my mind these two subjects and look simply at the facts; and I hold that under the circumstances of the case, Innes & Co. are right in refusing to recognise any one in the matter of these Teas but Acum, from whom they received them, to whom they made advances and by whom the transactions between him and them were closed. It appears that he is indebted to them, and they will have a right to set off against such indebtedness any balance or profit that may accrue over and above the advance made.

I am doing no wrong to Samshing, who might and who ought to have guarded his rights by taking care to disclose the fact of his ownership, and thus have prevented Messrs. Innes & Co. from dealing with Acum alone, and making the advance to him; but I might be doing a grievous wrong to persons in the position of Innes & Co., if I were to hold that individual owners might lay by until a profit accrued on any particular transaction, and then claim that profit, or at their option remain undisclosed and let the losses, when any were incurred, be placed to the account of the person who alone appeared as the principal. This might be a safe course of trading for them, but it would be most unfair to any one else, for then rich men would make all the profit, men of straw be fixed with the nominal losses, the real losses falling on the innocent and unfortunate shipper who made the advances.—Recorder.

(Army and Navy Gazette.)

BHOOTAN AND THE DOOAR WAR. By Dr. Rennie, London: John Murray. 1866.

Had it not been for the great expense incurred by the annexation of the Dooars, and the paucity of the results that accrued therefrom, probably no more attention would have been given to the state of Bhotan than had been previously accorded it. The information we possessed was very meagre, and anything but reliable, and "there is probably no country in the world that, until within the present year, has been less a subject of interest than Bhotan, and as a natural consequence, probably no one that there is less generally known about." So says the preface to Dr. Rennie's history of this frontier state. Bhotan, which lies on the north-eastern frontier of our Indian Empire, is about 120 miles in length, while its breadth greatly varies, 90 miles being about the average. It is very uncertain to what race the inhabitants belong, but the probability is that they originally came from Mongolia, and more recently from Thibet, for we learn from a Chinese work that "during the Tsang dynasty, from the seventh to the commencement of the tenth century, the Thibetans issued forth as conquerors from their original limits; waged an almost incessant war against China; and, following the course of their rivers, which, issuing from the south-eastern corners of their valleys, opened a route to India, extended conquests in this direction to the Bay of Bengal, to which they gave the name of the Thibetan Sea." As in Japan, the Government has two heads—a spiritual and a temporal one, named respectively the Dhurma and the Deb Raja. Under these there is a council, composed of seven ordinary members, and three others called Penlows, who are the governors of Western, Eastern, and Central Bhotan. The latter, however, called the Daka Penlow, has very little power in comparison with the other two. The Dhurma Raja is looked upon by the Bhotanese in the same light as the Grand Lama of Thibet is viewed by his subjects—namely, as a perpetual incarnation of the Deity, or Buddha himself in a corporeal form. The Deb Raja is supposed to be elected by the council of permanent Ministers, and to be chosen from amongst the principal officers of the country, who are eligible for seats in the council. At the present day, however, in practice, the country has fallen in reality into the hands of the Penlows of Eastern and Western Bhotan, who generally employ themselves fighting with each other; and the Deb now is merely the nominee of whichever of the two happens to be for the time the most powerful, though in theory they (the Penlows) are supposed to be nominated by the Deb—the practice, however, being that they fight their way to power. Under these Penlows are the Jungpens, or governors of forts, known to us by the name of Soubahs, and immediately subordinate to these are the Niobous, who act as their deputies. These latter are the class of men who, by organising raids into our territory, brought about hostilities between the British Government and Bhotan. Their military resources have hitherto been considered very insignificant; no properly organised force or shubbiness of a regular army having been seen, with the exception of a few hundred men who are kept as guards about the different forts. Their arms consist of matchlocks, jingals, bows and arrows, heavy straight swords, knives and catapults capable of throwing stones of a considerable size. The Bhotanese have hitherto been looked upon as a very contemptible enemy but recent events have shown that the estimate formed of their resources and individual courage has been, on the whole, undeservedly low. British intercourse with Bhotan commenced in 1772, in which year the Bhotanese invaded Cooch Behar, and carried off the Raja and his brother. The East India Company, however, sent a force consisting of four companies of sepoys and two guns under the command of Captain Jones to drive them out. This little force took the town of Cooch Behar by storm, and not only drove the Bhotanese beyond the frontier, but followed them up across the Dooars, and, entering the hills, captured the forts of Passakha and Dhalinkote, as well as the stockade of Chinchcotta. At the intercession of the Teeshoo Lama (who was then Regent of Thibet, and to whom they had appealed for aid), a treaty of peace was entered into and ratified on the 15th April, 1774. On account of this appeal from Thibet, a desire was created on the part of the Government of India of becoming more intimately acquainted with that country for commercial purposes. A mission to the Court of the Teeshoo Lama was accordingly organised, and placed under the charge of Mr. George Bogle, "a gentleman of distinguished ability and remarkable equanimity of temper." The mission started on the 6th of May, and reached Deshergyay, in Thibet, where the Lama was then holding his court, on the 12th of October, 1774. Mr. Bogle succeeded completely in the objects of his mission, and great results were expected to ensue from it; but in 1780 the Lama died, and these expectations were not realised. In 1783 another mission was sent into Thibet, under the command of Captain Turner who, for some reason which is not apparent, ceded Ambaree Fallacottah to the Bhotanese. A few years afterwards the Raja of Nepaul plundered the monastery of Teeshoo Loombo, and took prisoner a Waizeer of Lassa. The Emperor of China demanded satisfaction for the injuries inflicted, which was refused, and a Chinese force marched into Nepaul, and established a chain of military posts along the whole southern frontier of Thibet; and, according to Captain Pemberton, "the great object of prohibiting all intercourse between the inhabitants of British India and the extensive tribes who dwell in the lofty regions of Thibet was then effectually accomplished." The Dooars are confined to a narrow tract of country separating the British territory from Bhotan Proper. The northern portion presents a very rugged, irregular, sloping surface, and consists for the most part of forest land, while the southern part is extremely fertile, producing luxuriant crops of cotton, rice and tobacco. The climate is very unhealthy, the only persons capable of enduring it being the Meehis. A number of passes from the Bhotan mountains open on to the plains, each being under the command of a Jungpên. There are eighteen Dooars, eleven of which belong to Bengal, and the remaining seven to Assam. The British Government, on assuming the rule of the latter country after the first Burmese war, continued the relations then existing between it and Bhotan, although they were of a very complicated character. In order to check the frequent incursions made into Assam by the Bhotanese, the Dooars on the borders of that State were taken possession of by the British in 1841, in 'consideration of an annual payment to Bhotan of 10,000 rupees. The year following Ambaree Fallacottah, at the request of the Government of Bhotan, was taken under the management of the East India Company, the latter holding itself responsible to the former for the net annual proceeds of the property. "Outrages similar to those referred to as having taken place on the Assam side, now became common in the vicinity of the Bengal Dooars, hardly a year passing without their recurrence." No good resulting from the complaints made on the subject to the Bhotanese Government, in 1860 it was determined to withhold the rental of Ambaree Fallacottah as a punishment; it being understood that when the annoyances ceased the payment would recommence. This was productive of no good result, and in 1862 a raid was made into Sikim by the Jungpen of Dhalinkote; this occurred in January, and during the next month Cooch Behar was ravaged and a demonstration made against Darjeeling. Finding every other means useless, the Indian Government determined to send an envoy to Poonakha to confer on such matters as required explanation and settlement. The Honourable Ashley Eden was selected for the post, and in November, 1863, went to Darjeeling to organise the transport of his mission. About this time a rebellion broke out in Bhotan, which ended in favour of the Tongso Penlow, or Governor of the Eastern portion. The Deb Raja was deposed, and a nominee of the Tongso's placed on the throne. On account of this rebellion, and the many petty quarrels existing among the Jungpens, Mr. Eden was detained at Darjeeling for some time, and did not start for Poonakha until the 4th of January. No preparation was made for his reception throughout the whole journey, and on account of this nearly the whole expedition was sent back. Throughout, the bearing of the Bhotanese was characterised by the greatest insolence, and, on Mr. Eden's arrival at Poonakha, he was treated in a manner that is almost incredible. At last a treaty was submitted to him, and, it becoming apparent that only three courses could be adopted—namely, either to allow Mr. Eden and Cheeboo Lama (the interpreter) to be retained on condition that the rest of the camp was allowed to withdraw in safety, or to make an attempt to escape by night, or sign the paper, Mr. Eden signed the treaty, adding the words "under compulsion" to his signature. After suffering many more indignities, the mission was suffered to depart, and reached Darjeeling in April. The conduct of Mr. Eden, in signing the treaty, has been greatly censured; but, in the opinion of Dr. Rennie, "it admits, not only of the fullest justification, but calls for commendation, characterised as it was by a praiseworthy anxiety to safely withdraw from a position of questionable security those intrusted to his charge, regardless as to whether the means by which it was effected might or might not be fatal to his own official reputation. Mr. Eden sufficiently warned the Tongso Penlow of the worthlessness of the document he was exacting, and there can be no reasonable doubt that the course Mr. Eden pursued was in accordance with both the dictates of common sense and discretion, and at the same time the one least calculated to embarrass the Government." It was now determined to annex the Dooars to the British possessions, and a force was despatched to effect their subjugation under the command of Generals Mulcaster and Dunsford. The country was speedly conquered, and orders issued for the breaking up of the field force, when suddenly the Bhotanese attacked Dewangiri, and the British were forced to retreat to the plains. A second expedition was then fitted out, and the whole of the forts on the hills, which are erroneously supposed to command the Dooars, recaptured, and the troops stationed in them for occupation and defence. The subject of this work is not one likely to command much interest, but still the author has endeavoured to compensate for this by pleasing descriptions of the country, its inhabitants, their origin, customs, and language, in relation to which much valuable information is afforded.
